Commencement 1991 Striving for Excellence

Lasell College's 136th Commencement address was given on May 19 by Mary Richardson, co-host of WCVB-TV's Chronicle, which is syndicated nationally on the Arts and Entertainment cable network. Ms. Richardson received a bachelor's degree from the University of Santa Clara and a master's degree from California State University. She was awarded Lasell's first honorary Doctorate of Humane Letters at commencement. Following are excerpts from Ms. Richardson's address:

I am here today to tell you the truth about graduation speeches...no one listens to them. Years later, you will have difficulty recalling a single word that is spoken here today. You may even have difficulty remembering who spoke.

Why is it so hard to sit and listen to graduation speeches? Because, whether you are a graduate or a proud parent, this is one of those days in your life when the adrenalin flows like the sap of the maple trees in New England in the springtime — those days in your life that you can count on your fingers. The day you land your dream job. The day you are married. The day you give birth to your first child.... Those few golden days where the past and the present and the future all come together.

There is tremendous joy, pride, and a sense of accomplishment. And if the truth be told, a little bit of fear about what the future will bring. I've been invited here to talk to you about that future...about the issues facing professional women.

Many people will tell you that this is a tough year to be a graduate. School has been a kind of security blanket for you. Now you move on, either to complete a four-year program here or elsewhere, or out into the world to face a poor economy and a bleak job picture.

Let me tell you something. There will always be external events to worry about. This year the focus was on the war in the Persian Gulf and the recession. In my time it was the war in Vietnam and inflation.

That is why it is so important to have your own internal compass, your own moral code. We cannot always change the world around us, but we can change ourselves. The famed German author Goethe said, "If you would change the world, change the person who walks out your front door each morning."

...No matter how many résumés and cover letters you send out, no matter how many interviews come to nothing, do not allow yourself to get discouraged. Young as you are, you must take the long view — that this too shall pass.

...Reach out to others, and in reaching out you will not only grow as a human being and have an experience that no one can take away from you, you will do something very practical — enhance your résumé.

You are facing so many choices as you prepare to take your places in the adult world. I believe you are well prepared to face those challenges because of the education you received at Lasell. You're more familiar with the work world. You've had the chance to try out classroom theory in the workplace. Now that you have the basics, I want to encourage you to take chances...to risk...to get involved....

In your professional life have a passion for your work. Find something that you love and do it well. Do not settle for anything less. Do not be afraid to dream or to strive for excellence in what you do — even if those around you do not share your standards.

We cannot always change the world around us, but we can change ourselves.

Look around you...you will see quite a lot of so-called "successful" people, but how many happy people do you see? How many people do you know who are genuinely happy and find joy in their everyday lives? Resolve to be one of those people. Never get so busy that you're not having fun or so that you're not able to have a good belly laugh.

As a woman, I can tell you that you will face special challenges. The daily balancing act, the juggling of career and family. I have on occasion had a small child at my side when I interviewed an important political figure. I have rushed home between news programs when the chicken pox was suspected.

Striving for Excellence

Last year, First Lady Barbara Bush spoke at Wellesley's Commencement and said something which bears repeating: "At the end of your life you will never regret not having passed one more test, winning one more verdict, or closing one more deal. You will regret time not spent with a husband, a child, a friend, a parent."

I came of age when feminism was new. In offices they were refusing to get the boss his morning coffee. When I started in a newsroom, I was a go-for. I was very concerned about what was considered appropriate behavior, where to draw the line between being helpful and being a doormat.

One day a female field producer – the first one ever – arrived in our office. She was a powerful, imposing person who had risen to the top based on her abilities. But I was surprised at the advice she gave me. She told me, whenever I was editing a piece late at night or on deadline, to be sure to ask the editor if he wanted coffee or something to drink. Never forget the little things, she advised. That, she said, was not part of being a woman but of being human....

I close now with many good wishes and thoughts of one of my personal heroes, Robert Coles, an author and professor. He teaches the most popular class at Harvard, and on the last day he tells students, "Let us try to be good to one another. Be good friends. Work well with one another on behalf of others. And let us try to make our country better every day, each one of us, in the way we live our lives."

Alumnae and Graduates

Dorothy Seattles Woods '65, and her daughter Natalie Woods '91, of Plymouth, Massachusetts. Natalie was a business major.

Marian Sleeper Hall '37, of Eastchester, New York, and her granddaughter Kelly Sheehan '91, of Springfield, Vermont. Kelly majored in open studies.

Other graduates and their relatives include Amy Kafka '91, and her sister Natalie Kafka Caplan '77, of Sharon, Massachusetts; and Sarah Bishop '91, of Sherborn, Massachusetts, and her grandmother Clarice Lothrop Davin '43, of Cataumet, Massachusetts.

Child Study Center Receives IBM Gift

An IBM personal computer system, which includes a color monitor and a printer, was donated to help teachers begin the integration of computers into Lasell's preschool program. The computing equipment was given by the IBM Corporation in Waltham, Massachusetts, to be used in The Barn, one of Lasell's two child study centers.

Shirley Vara Gallerani '53, director of the child study centers, says the equipment will be used for "educational enrichment for the preschool children."

The request for the equipment was made by Linda Grosser of Newton, a manager at IBM and a member of the child study center's parent advisory board. Ms. Grosser's son graduated from The Barn this year, and a second son attends Rockwell, Lasell's nursery school.

In September, Ms. Grosser, who volunteers as a program organizer, chaperone, and classroom parent reader at The Barn, will teach the preschool children and staff how to use the computer by demonstrating educational games.

Ms. Gallerani says all of the children will benefit from the new computer system. "We'll use it for something as simple as teaching the children colors. The majority of the younger children cannot read yet, so we've coded things by color throughout The Barn. Having a color monitor will enable us to connect their learning."

The addition will also benefit the Lasell students enrolled in the early childhood education degree programs. The students will learn first-hand how to integrate computers into a preschool classroom setting.

Heritage Society Created to Honor Alumnae

The Heritage Society is a newly created association which honors some of Lasell's most dedicated alumnae and friends — those who have demonstrated their commitment to women's education by remembering Lasell College in their estate plans.

The long-term support made possible through these special gifts ensures that Lasell has the funds required to meet the educational needs of women in the future, as it has throughout its proud history. For example, bequests such as those received this year from the estates of Sarah Wild Gordon 'x21, and Rosalie Brightman Rosen '27, will make a significant difference in years to come.

With the approval of the Board of Trustees, Lynn Blodgett Williamson '46, was been named honorary chairman of the Heritage Society.

Mrs. Williamson, an alumna and trustee, had already included a bequest to Lasell in her will. "I wanted to make a gift now, so I could have the pleasure of knowing that I've made a difference in the future of the College," she says proudly. "However, I also wanted to maintain my income so I could help with my grandchildren's educational expenses. With a special arrangement called a charitable gift annuity, I was able to make a gift to Lasell, while at the same time, increase my current income."

The charitable gift annuity that Mrs. Williamson used is just one of several arrangements that can provide you with an income while providing an important gift to Lasell. Other ways to support Lasell that will qualify you for Heritage Society membership include remembering Lasell in your will or giving the College a life insurance policy that is no longer needed for the purpose for which it was intended.

We hope you will consider joining the Heritage Society's charter members, who will be listed in the Annual Donor Report .

For more information on making a gift to Lasell or on how to join the Heritage Society, please call the Office of Development and Alumnae Relations or return the form below.

Annual Fund Phonathons Boost Total

The Office of Development and Alumnae Relations held eight fun-filled nights of Annual Fund phonathons this past year, bringing together trustees, students, faculty, staff, and alumnae. Through the combined efforts of our enthusiastic volunteers, more than $52,000 was raised for Lasell. Annual Fund Chairman Carole Bellew Bornheimer '65, says, "Three cheers to the wonderful volunteers who took time out of their busy schedules to volunteer for Lasell! Also, I'd like to thank the alumnae who responded so generously." Pictured here, left photo: Trustee and alumna Carole Bellew Bornheimer '65 and Chairman of the Board of Trustees Ruth Turner Crosby '42. On the cover: President de Witt, center, celebrates Reunion weekend at Nostalgia Night with members of the classes of 1956 and 1966.

Celebrating Lasell: Reunion 1991 May 31-June 2

Reunion 1991 was a rousing success, in spite of our being beat out on tickets for Friday evening at Pops. (Don't worry 1992 Reunioners, we're already trying to get tickets for next year!) Reunioners were treated instead to a lively on-campus event, as Director of Development and Alumnae Relations Helena Bentz presented an informative and entertaining champagne-tasting session prior to Friday evening's Welcome Supper. During dinner music was provided by choral director Michael McLaughlin's jazz trio.

However, Friday was just a warm-up for the festivities which were launched full force on Saturday morning during class meetings – when classmates who hadn't seen each other in years exchanged hugs and shared life stories.

A popular daytime event were the tours of campus, whether led on foot by Ms. Bentz, or in the van by Chairman of the Board of Trustees Ruth Turner Crosby '42. It was an opportunity to revisit college haunts and to see additions to campus such as The Barn, converted into a child study center; the Fashion and Travel labs; the Lasell College Travel Agency, located in the Lasell Inn; and the Edwards Student Center, which houses the College bookstore.

At the Luncheon, Reunioners were treated to special musical entertainment as the Class of 1941 sang old melodies with lyrics written especially for the occasion by Gerry Bixby Averill. The newly-revived student singing group, Added Touch, also performed for the alumnae, with lively renditions of tunes such as "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy" and "Goodnight Sweetheart."

During the afternoon program, Medallions were awarded to Shirley Vara Gallerani '53, Director of Lasell's Child Study Centers, and Lynn Blodgett Williamson '46, herself a Reunioner (see accompanying story). In addition, President de Witt spoke about new programs at the College, Lasell's improving enrollment, and hopes for a Center for Intergenerational Studies.

In addition, recognition was given to the Class of 1961 for the largest Reunion attendance (48 members); the Class of 1946 for the largest percentage of participation in the Annual Fund, with 57 percent of the class making a contribution; and the Class of 1921 for making the largest total gift to the College from a Reunion year class, thanks to Ruth Rawlings Mott. In honor of the three classes, books were presented in their names to the Brennan Library.

Later, many alumnae enjoyed browsing in the College Bookstore, meeting with President de Witt at an informal reception, or attending the student/faculty oral history presentations on the 1920s and on dating in the 1950s.

Saturday evening saw the classes of '41, '36, '31, and '21 at a special dinner at the President's home, with gracious dining music provided by Irish harpist Mairead Doherty. The other classes enjoyed Nostalgia Night, a buffet dinner and dance in Winslow Hall. In the course of the evening, the masterful disc jockey had young and older alike on the dance floor performing everything from the Fox Trot to the Electric Slide and the Lindy Hop to the Limbo. Of course, some chose just to enjoy the "floor show" and seized the time to chat with long-lost friends.

The Reunioners left Lasell on Sunday with more happy memories of their time spent on campus and with a sense of excitement over the Lasell of today. With all that's happening at Lasell, you won't want to miss your next Reunion!

Alumnae Association Awards Two Medallions

President de Witt awarded bronze Medallions to two members of the Lasell community – Shirley Vara Gallerani '53, and Lynn Blodgett Williamson '46, during the Reunion 1991 festivities.

In June of 1968, Lasell's fourth president, Dr. Vincent DeBaun, announced the establishment of a new award: the Lasell Medallion, struck to honor outstanding members of the College community and to be presented at Reunion each spring.

The highest award to be given by the Alumnae Association, the bronze medallion "may be made to any member of the Lasell family who, by virtue of distinguished service to the College or to society at large, has brought added honor to the name of Lasell."

The Lasell Medallions are the gift of Mr. Chester H. Lasell of Greenwich, Connecticut, the grandson of Josiah Lasell, who was co-principal of Lasell Seminary with his brother and College founder Edward Lasell.

Each year a committee appointed by the Alumnae Board of Management selects individuals to receive the award. Nominations for the 1992 Medallion, which will be presented at Reunion '92, should be sent by March 1, 1992, to the Medallion Committee, Lasell College, Office of Alumnae Relations, 1844 Commonwealth Avenue, Newton, Massachusetts 02166.

Following are excerpts from the Medallion citations read at Reunion by President de Witt:

Shirley Vara Gallerani '53

A member of the Dean's list for all four semesters while a student at Lasell, Shirley has been a valued member of the College community since she was involved with Executive Council and as a Senior Counselor.

Shirley also attended Framingham State College and Lesley College earning degrees in early childhood education and management, respectively. She has had more than 20 years experience teaching and directing programs for children.

She returned to her alma mater in 1985 as a volunteer secretary in Lasell's Women's Center. In 1986, Shirley was named

In appreciation of all of her efforts and in honor of her continued commitment to the College, we are most pleased to award Shirley, a Lasell Medallion.

Lynn Blodgett Williamson '46

Lynn has been a loyal and active alumna since her graduation from the medical secretarial program in 1946. She was a member of the Worcester Lasell Club and the Greater Boston Lasell Club, and has acted as one of two class secretaries since graduation.

Using her Lasell training, Lynn continues to volunteer in the Symmes Hospital Emergency Room and — even while on vacation — in Rockport, Maine's Pen Bay Medical Center Emergency Room. She is an active member of the garden clubs in Lexington, Massachusetts, where she is a resident, and in Owls Head, Maine. She is a life member of the Lexington Historical Society.

Lynn's involvement with Lasell is legendary. She was president of the Alumnae Association in 1966-68, acted as chairman of the Lasell Annual Fund for two consecutive years, 1988-1990, and was phonathon chairman and co-chair for four years. In addition, Lynn is chairman of this year's Reunion weekend.

She was named to the Lasell College Board of Trustees in 1988, and more recently, was named honorary chairman of the College's Heritage Society. Also, her husband, Al, has been named to Lasell's Board of Overseers.

On behalf of the Alumnae Association, and with great pride and pleasure, we honor Lynn for her dedication and constant friendship to the College with the Lasell Medallion.

director of the Rockwell Child Study Center and a faculty member in the early childhood education program. She was named director of both child study centers, Rockwell and The Barn, in 1989.

Her professional and personal affiliations are numerous. She is a past vice-president and president of the Alumnae Association's Board of Management, and has served as chairperson of several committees within the Board. She presently serves on the College's Planning Committee and the Committee on Connected Learning.

In addition, Shirley is a director of the Council for Child Development Laboratory Administrators and the Newton Early Childhood Association. She is a member of the Boston and National Association of Educators of Young Children, the Regis College Child Study Task Force, and the Task Force for Integrated Preschool Programs for the Newton Special Needs Department.

Recognized locally as a resource on early childhood education, Shirley has published pieces and spoken on child development and other issues.

Admissions News: Lasell Welcomes First Baccalaureate Seniors

When classes resume on September 6, 45 young women will be among the first "senior" class at Lasell. These students will receive bachelor's degrees in early childhood education, hotel and travel/tourism administration, or fashion and retail merchandising in May 1992.

Former student government president Allyson Hazel of Westboro, Massachusetts, will be one of the seniors. "We're aware that what we do as a class will set a precedent. All of us are excited about the coming year and what is in store for us. We love Lasell and have learned so much here, it will be hard to leave," she says.

The College also expects to enroll 70 juniors, and 130 sophomores. In addition, Director of Admissions Adrienne Asiaf anticipates welcoming 185 freshmen in September — an increase of six percent compared to last year. More than 85 percent of the class comes from the New England area, but a few students are coming to Lasell from as far as Poland, Japan, and the Dominican Republic.

According to Ms. Asiaf, the most popular majors chosen by the freshman class are education and fashion merchandising, both of which have programs on the two- and four-year levels. The third largest freshman enrollment this year is in the two-year physical therapist assistant program.

In June, the College hosted an orientation session where members of the incoming freshman class had the chance to meet with their advisors, pre-register for classes, and enjoy a trip into Boston. They'll return to campus for a four-day orientation session in September when the upperclassmen will join them.

In addition, in order to expand Lasell's geographic enrollment and help increase diversity on campus, the Admissions staff has developed a database of international embassies, secondary schools, and educational services. "By this time next year, we hope to be recruiting in South America and possibly in Europe," Ms. Asiaf says. "Also, we've hired two new staff members to help with recruitment, college fairs, and transfer students."

"We're extremely pleased that Lasell is doing well in comparison to our competitors, for example, Lesley or Endicott," Ms. Asiaf says. "Our success is due in large part to our alumnae and friends who have worked as our ambassadors, spreading the word about Lasell. We appreciate all they've done and want to encourage them to keep it up."

Lasell will hold an Open House for potential students on November 3. If you know of a high school junior or senior who may be interested in Lasell, please complete the coupon and return it to the Admissions Office, Lasell College, 1844 Commonwealth Avenue, Newton, MA 02166, or call (617) 243-2225.

Lasell Offers Baccalaureate Degrees in Three Additional Programs

Before their recent disbandment by the Governor, the Massachusetts Board of Regents of Higher Education granted Lasell the authority to offer baccalaureate degrees in the areas of business, human services, and interdisciplinary studies. These four-year programs will begin in September.

The business administration program is oriented toward the decision-making tasks that women face in management positions, and will teach students to plan strategically, to organize human and financial resources, and to evaluate business production and goals in light of changing external and internal conditions. New courses to be added on the four-year level of study include Organizational Behavior, Labor Relations, International Business, and Management Information Systems. Graduates will receive a bachelor of science degree.

The program in human services administration is designed to prepare its graduates to work with and for people as direct service providers, advocates, or community organizers in fields such as out-patient day care facilities, special school programs, or recreational programs. Courses for the program include Clinical Methods, Group Facilitation, and a senior seminar called Intervention Strategies. Graduates, who will receive a bachelor of science degree, will have the necessary academic background to make them eligible for a future license as a social worker.

Interdisciplinary studies is organized to provide graduates with a broad-based foundation in the liberal arts, and further concentrated study in one of the interdisciplinary areas of social science, humanities, or math/science, along with career-oriented, marketable skills. New courses include Genetics, International Trade and Finance, Economic Development of the Third World, and General Physics. Graduates will receive a bachelor of arts degree.

Admissions Publications Win CASE Awards

In competition with 120 other college entries, Lasell's new recruitment publications won a silver medal from the 1991 Council for Advancement and Support of Education (CASE) Recognition Awards. Recruitment materials including the College viewbook, search piece, and individual program brochures won in the "Student Recruitment Publications Packages" category, while the viewbook itself — against 176 entries — received a bronze medal in the field of "Publications/Viewbook."

Faculty and Staff Developments

Joseph Aieta, professor of humanities, received a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities to participate in a summer seminar, "Rousseau and Blake: Inventing the Modern Imagination" at Harvard University.

Barbara Fitzsimmons, assistant professor of early childhood education, presented a paper at a conference of the Boston Association for the Education of Young Children.

Paula Panchuck, assistant professor and director of the early childhood education program, received a doctoral fellowship from Lesley College to prepare a visual program on cultural influences on attitudes towards aging, particularly in women.

Stephen Sarikas, assistant professor of science, and Deborah Alexander, assistant professor of computer science, were awarded a matching National Science Foundation grant to create a biotechnology laboratory at Lasell.

Lasell Maintains a Healthy Lifestyle

Introduced in 1984, Lasell Lifestyles is a health education program developed as an alternative to a traditional physical education program. In fact, according to Kerri Heffernan, assistant professor and director of the Lifestyles program, the "gym" part of the plan is only one-third of the total experience.

The other two-thirds are comprised of lectures on a variety of topics and "self-assessments" in the areas of physical fitness, nutrition and weight control, stress and relaxation, and sports. Students also take classes in areas such as CPR training, first aid, and women's health issues.

As societal issues have changed during the years, the lecture component of Lifestyles was restructured. "Today, in response to the students' concerns, we talk about things like AIDS and the affects of drugs," Ms. Heffernan says. "These things just weren't a dramatic problem when the program was created."

"There is a relevancy to the issues we cover in the seminars. The purpose of the lectures is to increase each student's awareness and sensitivity to differences. We challenge them to think and to develop an opinion," she says.

Because of the positive student response to the Women's Health Issues course, which is required of all freshmen and covers the issues from economic, political, and social viewpoints, new courses have been added to the curriculum. Ms. Heffernan says, "These courses grew from our discussions with the students and include a course addressing drugs in our society and a course on the aging process during the lifespan of a woman."

Completion of the program is a degree requirement for all students, who must attend the lectures to fulfill the health-wellness component of the program and participate in six units (each unit is a seven-week minicourse) of physical activity. Among the activities offered are aerobic dancing, basketball, weight training, tennis, crew, and volleyball.

Ms. Heffernan notes, "The team sports are popular and our students play competitively against other colleges such as Simmons, Lesley, Wellesley, Regis, Emerson, and Boston University. Although they play their hearts out, the girls get discouraged because our equipment is so outdated and the uniforms need replacing."

"In order to remain competitive, Lasell needs to offer prospective students what they want," she says. "Today's students want to participate in sports and enjoy working out. We need to strengthen our offerings in that area."

"For example," Ms. Heffernan continues, "each of our students needs the basics like uniforms and equipment. Also, most of them work so hard for Lasell, I feel badly there are no funds for awards to recognize their achievements."

The Lifestyles program is unique to Lasell and according to Ms. Heffernan has a reputation among other area colleges. "Other colleges have used the Lifestyles program as a model to develop their own wellness programs. That's why it is so important for us to make our own program stronger."

Can you help? What follows is a partial "wish list" put together by the College's Office of Student Services. If you're interested in making a donation of equipment to the Lifestyles program, please contact the Office of Student Services directly at (617) 243-2122.

Trustees Join Board

The Board of Trustees recently elected two members: Richard A. Flier of Brookline, Massachusetts, and Beverly J. Smith of Roxbury, Massachusetts.

Mr. Flier is president and principal of Richard A. Flier Interests, a commercial real estate services firm which specializes in special purpose and socially responsible developments. A graduate of Boston University's School of Communications, Mr. Flier serves on the Board of Directors of the Visiting Nurse Association of Boston, the Artists Foundation, the Art Institute of Boston, and the Patriots' Trail Girl Scout Council.

As a doctoral candidate at Harvard University's Graduate School of Education, Beverly Smith is on leave from her positions as a teacher and assistant housemaster at Brookline High School. She holds a bachelor's degree from Northeast State University and a master's degree from the Harvard Graduate School of Education. Ms. Smith serves on the Board of the Harvard Educational Review and is a member of the National Education Association of Teachers. She has acted as consultant to the Massachusetts Department of Education and to the Center for Research on Women in Wellesley, Massachusetts. (Her address at Lasell's Honors Convocation in 1990 was excerpted in the summer 1990 issue of the Leaves.)

Let Us Plan Your Next Trip

Lasell College Travel, a "connected learning" facility located in the Lasell Inn, is open to meet your personal and professional travel needs. We offer:

- Personalized vacation travel arrangements;
- Careful airfare review to ensure the best air price;
- domestic and international train reservations; and more!

Special Alumnae Excursions

Jan Daubenspeck, director of the Travel/Tourism Program and manager of the travel agency, plans to offer the Lasell community two unique travel opportunities this year. Call for details about a:

- week-long January 1992 trip to London, England; and
- week-long March 1992 golfing trip to Bermuda.

For information about either trip, please call Lasell College Travel at (617) 964-4280. Rates and specific dates will be available by September 1991.

The Designer Showcase

Lasell students modeled clothing from Boston-area designers such as Deborah Parker (top left), Tunji Dada (top right), and David Josef (bottom photos) in the spring Designer Showcase held at the Newton Marriott. Choreographed, produced, and managed by students in the Fashion Merchandising and Retail Management programs, the show, and an Alumnae Association sponsored reception, drew an audience of more than 450 people, with proceeds from ticket sales going toward the Alumnae Association's Student Scholarship Fund.

Through this annual spring event which we hope will draw continued support from alumnae, parents, and friends, the Alumnae Association hopes to increase the base of its scholarship fund, which this past year awarded scholarships totalling $8,500, to eight students (see accompanying story).

Alumnae Association Awards Scholarships

Each year the Alumnae Association presents scholarships to returning students who have financial need, have made a contribution to student life at Lasell, and have demonstrated their ability as scholars.

This past year 52 students applied for the coveted scholarship. Twelve were chosen as finalists and each was deserving of an award. Unfortunately, the modest fund allowed for only eight scholarships. The recipients of the 1991-92 Alumnae Association scholarships are:

Jennifer R. Bergeron, a sophomore in the early childhood education program, from Lewiston, Maine. She is co-captain of the soccer team.

Michelle Harmon, a sophomore in the early childhood education program, from Westbrook, Maine. She is a member of the International Club and the volleyball team.

Stormy Horton, a senior in the hotel and travel/tourism administration program, from Canton, Pennsylvania. She is a resident assistant in McClelland, a member of the choral group, Added Touch, and the Student Government Association. Stormy was an editor of the yearbook, The Lamp.

JoAnne Padula, a senior in the early childhood education program, from South Boston, Massachusetts. She is a member of the Student Government Association, the choral group, Added Touch, and a resident assistant in Vista House.

Jennifer Quimby, a junior in the human services program, from Natick, Massachusetts. She is a member of C.O.O.L., the student community outreach organization, and the Human Services Club.

Michelle Strathie, a senior in the hotel and travel/tourism program, from North Eastham, Massachusetts. She is a member of C.O.O.L., an alumnae phonathon volunteer, and was a resident assistant in New Dorm.

Tracy Withers, a junior in the fashion and retail merchandising program from Naples, Florida. She works on the annual fashion show and holds a part-time position in the Admissions Office.

Yu-Ping Yu, a senior in the hotel and travel/tourism administration program, from Taipei, Taiwan. She finances her education through part-time jobs on campus, is a member of the International Club, and is an alumnae phonathon volunteer.

Among The Missing

Lasell has no current address on file for the following alumnae. Listed alphabetically by maiden name, these women belong to the 1992 Reunion classes. If you know the whereabouts of your "lost" classmates, please write the Lasell College Office of Alumnae Relations at 1844 Commonwealth Avenue, Newton, MA 02166, or call (617) 243-2141. Thank you for your help.

Alumnae College and Council Scheduled for October 19

Dr. Elizabeth Harrington, director of the Women's Program at Charles River Hospital and a clinical instructor of psychiatry at Boston University's School of Medicine, will present "Our Connected Lives: The New Psychology of Women," at Lasell's newly created Alumnae College to be held on Saturday, October 19, 1991. The fee for the program is $10.00 and includes lunch.

Alumnae College participants are invited to attend Council, the annual meeting of the Alumnae Association, following the luncheon. As part of Council, President de Witt will give the State of the College Address and two students from an interdisciplinary studies class, Documentary and Social History, will present their oral history projects.

For information about the Alumnae College or Council, please call the Office of Development and Alumnae Relations at (617) 243-2141.

Alumna Profile: Dr. Marvine Weatherby '41

After retiring from a partnership in pathology in Dallas, Texas, Dr. Marvine "Tex" Weatherby volunteered for more than a decade as a doctor in Costa Rica. She returned to the United States after realizing she was chemically ill — and that her illness was caused by the indiscriminate spraying of pesticides. "I knew I was sick, but could not determine why. After spraying an insect with a commercial pesticide I had temporary paralysis," she says. "I began to realize that my illness intensified each time the airplanes sprayed the rice fields."

When her symptoms became worse upon her return home, Dr. Weatherby discovered just how misunderstood her illness is. "It is a difficult disease to have or treat," she says. "Many people are sick and have the symptoms, but don't recognize that their illness could be chemically related." Blurred vision, loss of balance, and nerve tingling and numbness are just a few of the possible symptoms of a chemical illness.

Chemically sensitive to certain herbicides and pesticides, Dr. Weatherby found she could not eat most store-bought food because of the chemicals used to grow and raise them. On the farm where she lives in Goldthwaite, Texas, she recently founded Weatherby Clean Beef, Inc., a local wholesale and retail company where she serves as vice president. The firm raises and sells locally "clean beef," natural organic meat with no steroids, antibiotics, pesticides, preservatives, or additives.

Dr. Weatherby maintains a chemical-free residence on the ranch and is greatly concerned about the effects of pesticides not only in food, but in nature. She says, "Most of all I want to aid in the establishment of a safer, cleaner environment including our homes, soil, air, and water. In my opinion, this man (not women) altered environment has completely changed the diseases of the world and the answer is not in modern medical science but in prevention." By virtue of being a doctor, she has always tried to assist others. Although she is "retired" she uses her vast knowledge of the effects of chemicals to help treat others who are chemically sensitive.

In 1944, she graduated from the University of Texas and enlisted in the WAVES. At the close of World War II, she was discharged with the rank of Pharmacist Mate 3/c and later returned to the University of Texas where she earned her medical degree.

Dr. Weatherby is a member of the Board of Directors of the Natural Food Associates. She is the recipient of a Lasell Medallion and serves on the Board of Trustees.

Woman of the Year

At the spring fashion show, The Designer Showcase, the students and faculty of the fashion merchandising and retail management programs named Deborah Masules, vice president of employee relations at Filene's Basement, Woman of the Year for 1991. She was awarded for her contributions to women's education and the corporate community.

Ms. Masules, a resident of Cape Cod, works extensively with the College as a member of the fashion program's corporate advisory board of directors. In addition, she serves on the legislative committee for the Boston Retail Group, Project Bread with the Boston Public Schools, and the Committee of Waltham for Battered Women.
